Answer

▲ If you answer a question - or have a question you asked answered by someone - please remember to edit the page and set the status to answered. The status is in a drop-down list below the edit box.

If a document contains a string made up of 2 capitalised words (example: OneTwo), then TWiki thinks that this is a link to a document.

Therefore the simplest method to create a new document is to edit the current one and write in such a string. First make sure that you are in the most appropriate web for your new page. For example Atlas topics should go in Atlas web etc.

To edit an existing document click on the Edit or WYSIWYG buttons that are found on the top right of the page.

When you save the document the new string appears with a `?` and this means that the document is ready to be written to. Click on the `?` and a new edit session is presented.
